

While our Circuit Riders are no longer on horseback, the need to minister to small, rural, and spread-out communities is still a priority.

We are looking for men or women who are willing to be bi-vocational ministers. Bi-vocational is defined as having a "tent-making" job that is done in conjunction with your life as a minister. You will be required to serve the communities in your circuit in weekly or monthly services. This service may also include visiting the sick, helping the needy, organizing churches, and preaching the gospel wherever you find yourself. Weekly check-in through Zoom with the Society and oversight from a diocese or denomination is required. Records will also need to be kept for diocese/denomination and for the Society.

The Barnabas Conference is not a Denomination but does require the circuit rider to be a part of an orthodox Protestant denomination preferably in the Wesleyan tradition.

There are currently several open circuits across the Midwest and the Rocky Mountain regions
